Our Goal & Focus

Here at Lehman Chiropractic, Inc. our goal is to help you receive relief from pain and discomfort in the initial stages of care, and later to promote chiropractic as an important part of your health care regimen. We not only want to make you feel better, but want to help you maintain good overall physical health and well-being.

Welcome to the first edition of the Lehman Chiropractic, Inc. newsletter. Our desire is to provide you with regularly published information that will enhance your experience here at our office and keep you up to date on the latest improvements and changes in the office and chiropractic world. Many times it will be informative, and other times it may simply be something fun we want to share with you, a member of our chiropractic family.

Dr. Warner Set to Retire in December

It is with mixed emotions that we announce the upcoming retirement of Dr. Alex Warner from practice. After 35 years in the profession and boasting over 200,000 patient visits, Dr. Warner's final day of seeing patients will be Dec. 17th. He wishes to thank all of his patients for the privilege of having been part of their health care team over the years. He has often stated, "Darke County is fortunate to have quality professionals in all areas and levels of health care.

I have been blessed to have surrounded myself with quality, caring individuals on our staff and to have entrusted the future care of our patients to Dr. Kyle Lehman."

Dr. Warner is extremely proud of the fact that over the years 10 former patients have become, or are in the process of becoming, Doctors of Chiropractic. He also wants his patients to know how much they have enriched his life over the past 35 years.

He truly appreciates the relationships he has experienced with you and your families, including your joys and sadness, and looks forward to seeing you in the future in private life. Going forward, Dr. Warner wishes healthy, happy and active lives for all of his patients!

Humble Beginnings...

Lehman Chiropractic, Inc., formerly known as Warner Chiropractic, first established practice in 1986 after Dr. Alex Warner returned to Darke County following over three years of training at Logan University in St. Louis, Missouri, to earn his Doctorate of Chiropractic degree. Beginning as just a two employee office, only the south half of the current building was utilized and just 15 patients were seen the entire first week of practice.

Over the years the practice steadily grew resulting in the expansion of the office space and the entire current building was purchased in 1998. With the increased growth of the patient base which eventually exceeded 7,000 patient visits yearly, the staff expanded to add additional full time chiropractic assistants and business personnel.

In 2009, Dr. Kyle Lehman joined the practice as an associate, and in 2011 he purchased the practice. Since then we have evolved to encompass many forms of care. In addition to providing traditional chiropractic care of the entire family, we offer sports rehabilitation, physical examinations, nutritional supplements and deep tissue laser therapy.

We are now excited to move forward and continue on the solid reputation Dr. Warner began almost 35 years ago. One does not boast nearly 200,000 patient visits during this time without displaying a dedication to excellence and putting patient needs as top priority. Dr. Lehman has been and will continue to offer the same patient care as we continue into the future of the practice.

Trusting Dr. Kyle Lehman with the Future

Being hand picked by Dr. Warner to continue his legacy might seem overwhelming to some, but that's not the case for Dr. Kyle Lehman. Being brought on as an associate to the thriving chiropractic practice in 2009, just two short years later, in 2011, he would purchase the practice and take on all that transaction entailed. However, achievements were just par for the course, thus the reason Dr. Warner entrusted Kyle Lehman to continue what he started.

Born and raised in Union City, Indiana, Dr. Lehman is a graduate of Union City Community High School and the University of Indianapolis where he majored in athletic training with the intention of pursuing a doctorate in physical therapy. However, two years in, he changed his path and began to pursue an associate degree in physical therapy while completing all the prerequisite courses for chiropractic school. During this time he also married his high school sweetheart, Libby, and together they pursued lofty goals.

Following his undergrad program Dr. Lehman then attended Logan University in St. Louis, Missouri, also Dr. Warner's alma mater. While there he attained a bachelors degree in human biology, a masters degree in sport science and rehabilitation and a doctorate in chiropractic. With his advanced training and specialization in diagnosing and treating sports injuries, you can trust his experience to treat not only spine injuries, but also injuries that include any part of your body.
